

The Jackson Hole, WY Airport will undergo a temporary closure from April 11th through June 27th, 2022. The closure will allow for runway reconstruction and additional projects at the airport. The airport will be closed to both airline and general aviation operations requiring visitors who wish to visit Jackson Hole by air to find alternative transportation opportunities during this period.

For your convenience, we have compiled a detailed resource on alternative routes to Jackson Hole so you can get the most out of your experience. This guide includes both ground and air alternative transportation routes:

THREE OUT OF STATE OPTIONS (ADDITIONAL GROUND TRANSPORTATION REQUIRED):

Idaho Falls Regional Airport: Idaho Falls, Idaho

Mileage to Jackson: 90 Mi

The Idaho Falls Regional Airport is located roughly 2 hours from Jackson. The airport showcases year-round flights from Allegiant, Delta, United, Alaska, and American Airlines. Rental car agencies include Alamo, Enterprise, Avis, Hertz, Budget, and National. Shuttles to some Jackson hotels can be arranged through Salt Lake Express, Teton Stage Lines, and St. George Shuttle Services. Approximate quote for a taxi is $300. Amenities also include a full-service restaurant and WiFi. There are currently 16 flights leaving IDA a day, visit their website for time and destination details.

Getting to Jackson by Ground from Idaho Falls

There are two options to get to Jackson from Idaho Falls. Both are breathtaking routes:

1. The first option is taking Highway 26/31 to Victor, ID, and then Highway 22 to Jackson. Here you'll drive through the beautiful Swan Valley, hitting two passes thick with forests and river bottoms. After Victor, you will head up hwy 22 or Teton Pass with dramatic imagery and sprawling views of Teton Valley. You'll also pass the iconic "Last of the Old West" sign at the top, perfect for your first photo-op.
2. The second option is to take Highway 26/89 to Alpine, WY. The route will take you along the Palisades Reservoir. Look out for moose and eagles during the drive! After reaching Alpine, you will turn to drive up the canyon along the famous Snake River to Hoback Junction. Look out for Lunch Counter or Big Kahuna turn-offs. These are the two biggest rapids on the river, and seeing kayakers and surfers is not ordinary.

Salt Lake City International Airport: Salt Lake City, Utah

Mileage to Jackson: 278 Mi

The Salt Lake City (SLC) Airport is located roughly 4.5 hours from Jackson. 370 flights depart from the airport daily to 99 nonstop destinations. Click for more on ground transportation and car rentals at the SLC airport. The approximate quote for a taxi is $925.

Getting to Jackson by Ground from Salt Lake City

Salt to Stone Route:

Explore small towns and long stretches of wilderness. This route is great for visitors traveling from Salt Lake City into southwest Wyoming and north towards Yellowstone National Park. Click here for more on this route.

Bozeman Yellowstone International Airport: Bozeman, Montana

Mileage to Jackson: 217 Mi

The Bozeman Yellowstone International Airport is located just over 4 hours from Jackson. The airport provides 30 non-stop flights in the US and connections world-wide. The airport is a short scenic drive to Yellowstone National Park and several other attractions. Click for more information on ground transportation. Approximate quote for a taxi is $710.

Getting to Jackson by Ground from Bozeman

Mileage to Jackson: 220 Mi

The quickest route to drive from Bozeman to Jackson is driving South through Ennis, Ashton to Driggs and Victor (ID) then over Teton Pass to Jackson Hole. The other choice of routes goes via Gallatin Canyon via Big Sky (a narrow and beautiful 2 lane windy and busy highway), West Yellowstone, Island Park then Ashton to Jackson Hole.

You can alternatively choose the Scenic route through Yellowstone National Park but the route is substantially longer but includes the scenic wonders of YNP. The West Entrance usually opens early May and the South Entrance the third weekend in May. Prior to this time, this route to Jackson is closed to vehicle traffic.